

Tallest Sunflower Competition 2021

I hope some of you have been growing these successfully although chillier weather just a few weeks ago and then the heat-wave of last week must have been quite confusing for them. However, August is when judging has taken place previously so I will be doing the same this year, along with my trusty measuring rod, and this will be between the 1st and 15th August. I've allowed some flexibility with the dates because our fickle weather may mean that some sunflowers may already be in flower whereas others may still only be in bud.
